Editorial

Dear Reader,

We are delighted to publish the third issue of the third volume of Annals of Contemporary Developments in Management and HR (ACDMHR). The issue is published with aspirations to offer our readers the latest research in Management and HRM. The editorial team envisions taking this journal for prominent indexing through publishing quality papers. The current issue offers studies on work and employee engagement, HRM, career development, employee voice, business performance, and enterprise risk management practices. These articles discuss some of the important issues of contemporary nature to enlighten readers. On behalf of the entire editorial team, I welcome you to this insightful learning journey.

Best regards,

Professor Aminu Mamman
